

SHORT OF COTTON HANDS.

Mississippi Planters May Be Compelled to Reduce the Acreage.

MEMPHIS, TENN., February 26.—Reports from several counties in the Yazoo Delta and counties in the Mississippi Valley are to the effect that preparations for planting are being hampered by a scarcity of labor. Within the past sixty days there has been a large exodus of negroes from the cotton lands of Mississippi. For the first time in six years the colored laborer of the South finds himself the possessor of some surplus money, and he can find no better method to demonstrate his independence than by removing his habitation, and the result is that hundreds of families have left the plantations in Mississippi. A majority of these have removed to Arkansas, from whence they came about three years ago, having been driven away on account of overflows, which inundated millions of acres. Arkansas, however, for the past two years has escaped the disastrous effects of the floods, and this year many of the negroes who left that State have returned. On one plantation alone in the valley, south of Memphis, John W. Eldridge lost fifty-three families, and he was recently in Memphis trying to secure labor. Unless immigrants can be secured, he, together with many other planters in the valley, will be compelled to curtail acreage. Four days ago thirty negroes from Arkansas and other points passed through Memphis for Savannah, Ga., where they were to take a steamer bound for Liberia.

ARRANGED FOR HIS FUNERAL.

Chicago Man Selects His Casket and Then Commits Suicide

CHICAGO, ILL., Feb. 26.—After giving to an undertaker explicit directions for his own funeral, Wm. H. Pearson went to the residence of his cousin, Mrs. James Bell, 4717 Evans avenue, and committed suicide. Pearson was a telegraph operator of national reputation. His friends ascribe his act to grief over the death of his wife, last November. He was 42 years old. Pearson had for several weeks been considering plans for his own death. Once before he had tried to commit suicide by turning on the gas in his room, but he was found before the fumes had produced unconsciousness.

Last Tuesday night he swallowed five grains of morphine, and when this agent of death failed, he attached a rubber hose to the gas jet in his room, and with the other end in his mouth, lay down to die. Before ending his life, however, he called at Ralston's undertaking establishment in Hyde Park and told the man in charge what kind of a casket he wanted to be buried in. He left several letters, among them one to his mother and another to the Coroner.

Revenue Better Than Bonds.

The passage of a bill calculated to increase Federal Revenue would do more toward strengthening the credit of the United States and removing the troubles that arise from mistrust of its financial health than the sale of a hundred millions of bonds. There has been a jubilee among the old Cuckoo crowd because the month of December showed revenue sufficient to meet expenses, but the month of January promises a deficit amounting to somewhere from eight to ten millions. As it is the government cannot honestly be said to be on a paying basis. While its credit is good enough to borrow, its business does not stand for permanent solvency. Even if it were to make both ends meet, the bare ability to scrape through is not enough for an enormous concern like the United States Government. Its revenue, its legitimate commercial income, not its borrowing account, must be sufficient not only to guarantee its soundness, but to forbid all apprehension of its embarrassment. A tariff bill to produce that condition of affairs would be better than a government announcement of a thousand millions loan instead of a one of a hundred millions.

Of the Dingley bill the only revenue bill now before Congress, there may be features inconsistent with any regular tax theory, but upon the special Democratic principle that the tariff for revenue only, compared with the Wilson tariff it is the national Democratic platform itself illustrated. First, it will raise more revenue. Its second, and for Democrats more decisive merit is that it takes the great staple of wool and lumber, not to mention other things, on the free list, and requires them to contribute revenue. In this respect it looks to the enactment of a constitutional, non-discriminating democratic tariff for revenue only.

The second effect of gold of such a mark as this measure would be difficult to exaggerate. It would exhibit to the world the again inspired with confidence and directness of purpose. It would show that the country was not in a state of cracked-belted craziness for free wool, but that in the hands of the financial community the common and important of business.—New York Sun (Democratic.)
